COLUMNSolf as a Popular Game Is Growing Every Day—Kraenzlein to Coach Germany's Athletes.

THE game of golf is growing rapidly in popularity in this country, particularly in New York. Yesterday the semi-finalists in the national amateur championship tournament, watching every move of Travers, Evans, Anderson and Herreshoff at times with breathless interest. Five years ago a gallery of one hundred was considered extraordinary. So was golf going right here in our own vicinity, that there aren't enough clubs to accommodate all who want to play. For instance, at the Wykagyl Club there is a waiting list of applicants nearly a year old.

Nearly everybody that can afford the time in playing golf. Even two or three of McGraw's Giants have taken to the game with such enthusiasm that their manager for a time feared it was taking their minds off baseball and made them cut down their trips to the links.

England is so much interested in the game as played on this side of the ocean that three of her newspapers have sent representatives all the way here to "cover" the Garden City tournament, with an allowance of $1,000 each for expenses, or the comparatively short trip. Of course, England had some representatives in the Garden City tournament, but even though they dropped out during the early rounds, the interest so far as the English correspondents are concerned hasn't abated.

In a ring side box at the recent Palmer-Moran fight the Garden City golf tournament was discussed in much the same way one would expect to find the Giants' world series chances talked of.

"How did Jerry do to-day?" asked one. "Fine," replied another. "He's in his stride now and will win sure." The Jerry in question was Jerome Travers, the golf champion, who was in danger of being eliminated from the tournament in the medal play round. And they use to say golf was an old man's game.

ACCORDING to reports from Chicago, A. G. Kraenzlein, who met the German athletic commission there, has signed a five years' contract to prepare Germany's representatives for coming Olympic meets. It is said Kraenzlein will get $50,000 for his services.

The $50,000 part of the contract, however, is to be doubted, according to Lawrence Robertson, trainer of the Irish-American A. C. track and field team. Lawrence was offered the German job some time ago, with a three years' contract at about $3,000 a year. This included a house to live in on the other side, but Lawrence couldn't see it.

Lawrence calls attention to the fact that all the European countries are sending trainers pick native sons. While Kraenzlein isn't a German by birth, he is a product of Milwaukee, a little German in itself. When Sweden needed a trainer she engaged Ernie Herbersberg. Kraenzlein has been a wonderful athlete in his time. He was first in the Chicago A. C. team which came East to compete in a dual meet with the New York A. C. There were other good athletes in the party, including Johnny Murphy and J. C. Cram. Kraenzlein first showed as a hurdler, afterward took to broad jumping and then to all-round athletics. Some of his records still stand. He was a big, heavy-set chap with a wonderful pair of legs. He never could lay claim to being the most graceful athlete in competition, but he was a grinder at getting over the bar.

He entered the University of Pennsylvania and as a member of the track and field team in the intercollegiate won many a point for the Blue and Red. Kraenzlein is now a very successful dentist, but he has never lost his interest in athletics. He will sail abroad about Sept. 25.

BOUNTING sent Wednesday, Sept. 4, followers of thoroughbred racing will have enough to keep them interested throughout the long winter and well into spring, when preparations will be under way for the renewal of the sport at the Jockey Club tracks. For instance, on Sept. 10 a twenty day meeting will begin at Haver de Grace, with the stakes and the prize money there as of yore; Pimlico will follow with a twelve-day season under the pari-mutuel system; then will come Laurel with thirty days of continuous racing with the bookies again submitting the prizes. Juears will resume about Thanksgiving time to continue until well into March, and Charleston, beginning Dec. 1, will last all the way to April.

Collins Fells Eggers Twice.
John "Twins" Fells, a Brooklyn lightweight, was disqualified by Referee Bill Brown for fouling K. O. Eggers of this city in the fourth round of a ten-round fight at the Brown A. A. of New Rochelle. Collins landed a blow on Eggers in the first round, but as Referee Brown thought it was an accident he gave Eggers a chance to recover, and then ordered the fight to resume. In the fourth round Collins again fouled Eggers and was disqualified. In the last ten-round go Jimmy Fuzane outboxed Billy Kramer after a hard-fought battle.

TRIVERS WINNER OF TITLE AGAIN,
BEATING ANDERSON

In the finals of the nineteenth National championship over this course. Travers in the second round was invincible. Anderson, fighting bravely against terrible odds, couldn't win a single hole in the afternoon rounds.

The deciding match was played before scenes never enacted here before. The game fight Anderson made this morning, when he held the Jersey wizard even for the first eighteen holes, attracted a tremendous gallery. Hundreds before the start of the second round scurried out to places of vantage, carrying lunch baskets.

The crowd, reinforced by latecomers from New York, numbered about 7,000 at the ninth hole, and this was increased to 10,000 at the fourteenth, where Travers completed his rout of Anderson. Hundreds unable to see the match climbed into trees for a fleeting look.

AVIATOR SEES GAME FROM THE SKY.

An aviator from Hempstead in his aerial gallery was among those who saw Travers win the Havemeyer Cup, the highest golf honor in this country.

The afternoon round was one continuous string of victories for the champion. Travers won the first, second and third holes in quick succession. This reversal of form shocked Anderson. The Jersey man played manfully, but he was a beaten man before Travers, who reeled off all kinds of shots with utter confidence.

Besides capturing the national championship four times, Travers has won the Metropolitan and New Jersey State titles, each four times the greatest showing ever made by an American golfer. Anderson changed his "nickers" for long trousers in the afternoon, and then proceeded to lose the first hole when he sliced his drive in the rough, took two to get out, and then holed out on the sixth, after missing an easy putt.

Travers, too, dropped his tee shot in the rough for almost an impossible lie, but he gave an indication of his form when he played a niblock for a perfect shot on the green. He ran down an easy putt on his fifth.

The champion increased his lead on the short second when he laid his drive dead on the green and went out in three. Anderson off the line needed four. Travers couldn't be stopped and won the fourth after halving the three in four.

A sensational recovery from a bunker by Travers was the feature here. The next five holes were halved. Anderson, trying every trick in his bag, was powerless to cut into the champion's lead. At the turn Travers was 5 up and going strong.

ANDERSON MISSES EASY PUTT AT ELEVENTH.

The Boston schoolteacher slipped up on a five-foot putt on the tenth and Travers added the hole to his string. He did the same on the next. The champion overran the cup on his approach shot, but sunk a great twenty-five-foot putt from behind the flag. Anderson had a fine chance to win the hole, but he again missed an easy putt that tipped on the edge of the cup. Each halved the twelfth in 3 and the thirteenth in 5.

To win Travers only needed a half on the next and he promptly did this with a drive that dropped on the edge of the green. Anderson, realizing the match was gone, warmly greeted his opponent, whose victory was all the more remarkable because of the narrow escape he had of qualifying early in the tournament.

Morning Round.
Travers and Anderson.
In the final round for the National Amateur Golf title, Travers and Anderson halved all squares. Travers was one up at the seventeenth hole.

MORNING CARDS.
Travers..... 5 4 3 2 1 0 5-20
Anderson..... 4 3 2 1 0 5-20
Travers..... 5 4 3 2 1 0 5-20
Anderson..... 4 3 2 1 0 5-20

when he finished the morning's round all square with Anderson. A gallery of 1,000 trailed the players and saw a match with the issue always in doubt. The champion couldn't disturb his Massachusetts opponent with an early lead of two up on the third hole. Anderson kept ploughing along, and finally began to overtake Travers on the seventh hole. He made the match all even at the eighth, and jumped in the lead at the turn. The champion seemed badly worried by the way Anderson pressed him, and lost three holes in a row, a remarkable occurrence for him. Coming home the Bay State man increased his lead to two up on the thirteenth. At this point Travers rallied gamely. He won the fourteenth and squared the score on the sixteenth with magnificent work.

NIP AND TUCK TO THE 18TH HOLE.

Anderson appeared dazed by the Jersey star's desperate rally. Travers himself jumped in the lead at the seventeenth but couldn't hold his gain when Anderson squared the match on the last hole.

Travers took first shot and promptly sliced his drive into the rough. Anderson, playing in knickerbockers, was more successful and landed well up. Travers got two bad lies, missed an easy putt and holed out in 4. Anderson, going straight, went out in four.

Travers' tee shot went dead on the green and the champion only needed three to go out. The Bay State schoolteacher got on the green well, but fouled an easy putt and took four.

The champion also won the next hole on a beautiful approach, a long putt, for a 4. Anderson, coming up, was trapped twice and used 5. Travers just barely missed going out in 3 when a twenty-foot putt went to the edge of the hole. Anderson still dropped into the rough and hooked his second into sand. He took four to the green and went out in six.

Travers straight on a line did the long hole in 3. Both halved the sixth in four and the sixth in five.

TRIVERS NEEDED GROUND ON THE SEVENTH HOLE.

Travers had a world of trouble on the seventh. He sliced his drive in the rough, played a niblock shot into a bunker, and took two to get on the green. He followed this up by missing an easy putt and was forced to use seven for the hole. Anderson was quick to take advantage of the champion's slump and covered the distance in 4, cutting down Travers' lead to one up.

The Jersey man took bad on the eighth. He had difficulty keeping on the line. Altogether, he played 5 to Anderson's 4.

His drive for the thirteenth was almost in line, Anderson using wood against Travers' iron. They were about equal on their second, but Travers played a niblock on his third while Anderson laid his ball a yard from the hole. Anderson won in 4 to 5, increasing his lead to 1 up.

Anderson's drive for the fourteenth fell away to the left, close to a bunker, but he had the better second, as Travers was on the long grass. Anderson was weak in putting while Travers, getting out nicely from the rough, holed down in 4 to 5. Anderson 1 up.

Anderson drove the longer ball from the fifteenth tee, but Travers got ahead on the second; Anderson was short four feet with his third and Travers almost rimmed the cup. The hole was halved in 4. Anderson 1 up.

MATCH IS SQUARED ON SIXTEENTH HOLE.

Travers outdrove his opponent fully 40 yards from the sixteenth tee. For his second Anderson was 40 yards short of the green while Travers was 30 yards short. Travers chipped to within six feet of the hole, while Anderson was 25 feet away on his third. With his fourth Anderson almost styried Travers, but the champion made the putt, winning the hole in 4 to 5 and squared the match.

Away from the seventeenth tee Travers had a beautiful drive, and his second was right on the line. His third curved away from the cup. Anderson's drive also was straight, but he sliced his second under the trees. He recovered nicely, but missed a putt, and Travers was in 4 to 4. Travers 1 up.

Playing the eighteenth over the pond, Travers pulled his tee shot into the bunker to the left of the green and took two to get out. Anderson was close to the cup in 3. Travers gave up the hole when he missed his fourth, which made them all even for the first half of the match.
